This mammoth task of preparing a review of six decades of nutrition transition in India was made possible by a grant provided by the Ministry of Women and Child Development. Nutrition Foundation of India acknowledges with thanks the deep interest shown by the Secretary, Joint Secretary, Technical Adviser (FNB), Adviser (Statistics) and many senior officials of the Ministry of Women and Child Development in preparation of this report. We had numerous discussions with them and their suggestions and perspectives went into shaping the contours of this report. I would also like to thank the Ministry for acceding to our request for more time for preparation of the report, so that we could include the recent data from DLHS 2 and NFHS 3 and truly cover nutrition transition during the last six decades

I would like to place on record our sincere thanks to the National Sample Survey Organisation, National Nutrition Monitoring Bureau and International Institute of Population Sciences for providing us ready access to their reports and also raw data from their surveys; without their unstinted support and cooperation it would not have been possible to prepare this report. NFI acknowledges with thanks the permission given by the World Bank for quoting figures from their Report “ India’s Undernourished Children”.

I would like to thank Dr Gopalan, President, NFI for his encouragement, guidance, incisive critical review and support through out the preparation of this report. A well knit team of young scientists from NFI, Dr Hema Gopalan, Mrs Shavika Gupta, Ms Neha Aggarwal, Ms Deepti Khanna, Mrs Sakshi Bhushan, Ms Vandana Aggarwal, Mrs Rajeshwari Ramana, Ms Shweta Chawalia and Ms Kanchi Malik worked diligently for months preparing tables from raw data, cross checking data for consistency and preparing charts and graphs without which it will not be possible to make sense from the massive data; their help made it possible for me to spend time on interpreting the data and writing the report. Once the draft report was prepared, they took up the task of preparation of graphics for inclusion in the report and finally the arduous task of proof reading. I am indeed very grateful for all the hard work they put in which made the writing of this report a very pleasant and rewarding exercise.
